Inspectors In Report Score Ohio State Officials For Reckless And Prodigal Expenditures of Government Money—No Dishonesty Is Found.

WASHINGTON, D. C., DEC. 20.—The state officials of Ohio are scored in a report issued by the war department today on the mobilization of the organized militia for service in Mexico. Structures are applied to the Ohio state officials on account of glaring extravagance and inefficiency at Camp Willis. The report has been long expected. It was in part: "Blue print plans, estimates, etc., for shelters of troops at mobilization camps have several years ago been supplied state authorities, so that in the event of mobilization such plans, etc., might be at hand and time thereby saved. In Ohio, however, it appears that the furnishing of these plans was erroneously construed to authorize expenditure of money, and before the federal authorities were aware of it an indebtedness of $202,000 was incurred in the preparation of the mo-

WILL GERMANY MAKE FURTHER PEACE TERMS

England's Note Follows Premier's Speech—War Preparations Continue

AMSTERDAM, DEC. 20.—Altho the Allies have refused to consider the Teutonic peace proposals, the fact that the entente government will send a formal reply to the German note is regarded in political circles as a progressive step, according to a report from Berlin today. Whether or not Germany will name her terms or whether she will await a more opportune moment to make fresh peace overtures is problematical.

LONDON, DEC. 20.—The contents of the allied note to the central powers rejecting the Teutonic peace proposals will be along the same lines as Premier Lloyd-George's speech. It was stated in official circles today. Specific terms are demanded by the allies. The big question of the hour now is:

Will Germany make new overtures to the allies conveying terms in accord with the broad principles in Mr. Lloyd-George's speech? It is felt that the premier left the way open for further negotiations, but whether Germany will take advantage—Continued On Page Four—

Women's Labor Law Test Suit Fails In N. Y.

WASHINGTON, DEC. 20.—Without deciding constitutional questions raised, the Supreme Court dismissed a test case appealed by the Charles Schweitzer Press, a corporation of New York City, to determine the validity of New York's women's labor law, which prohibits night employment of women. The court held that the question had not been determined, as required, by the highest New York court, but only by an inferior court.

WHITMAN FOR PROHIBITION

NEW YORK, DEC. 20.—Governor Charles S. Whitman has come out for prohibition. At least that is the opinion of those who heard him say Saturday on his return to Albany from the conference of governors at Washington Saturday. "The prohibition movement is one of which cognizance must be taken by all public men. It has the support of intelligent, well-meaning men and women of the country and is bound to come. New York will not be the last to fall before the onslaught." While recognizing that it is improbable the governor will take the initiative in prohibition work, it was inferred that he would at least refer to the question in his address to the legislature on Jan. 3. It was said the subject was under discussion at the meeting of Mr. Whitman with the New York delegation in Washington following the governor's conference.

ONE SLY PEEK AT GIRL'S ANKLE MAY COST PETER $3500

CHICAGO, DEC. 20.—When a pretty girl displayed a prettier ankle in the presence of Peter Zulu, he just couldn't make his eyes behave. And it may cost him $3500. Peter swore he was blinded in a plant where he was employed. He was awarded the $3500 by the state industrial board, but investigators were not satisfied. They staged a fake movie scene in Peter's yard. Peter was blind as a bat until the heroine lifted her skirts. The movie camera caught his eyes on the jump and the film was exhibited before the state board.

There is a marker for every street intersection in the city according to Mr. Ashman. They are painted in white upon a blue enamel background. It is expected that they will be placed at the different street intersections early in the new year.

Chief Tracewell Declares Other Fires Will Occur

James Tracewell, Fire Chief, stated Wednesday: "There will be more fires before we get thru with this gas proposition. Many of the flues of Coshoccon homes, which were built for coal fires have been used for gas stoves and furnaces for the past several years. It requires only two seasons for the gas fumes to eat, by chemical action, the mortar between the bricks to such an extent that it is unsafe for coal fires." Chief Tracewell stated that a close inspection of all chimney flues should be made and that it is likely there will be more fires on account of defective flues.

Short Circuit Responsible
The fire in the Meek building Monday night is that to have been caused by a short circuit in some electric wires in the basement of the Pentel kitchen. Fireman Robert Tracewell stated that the fire started in the storage room. He and Clinton Burrell discovered the seat of the fire along the freight elevator of the back room from which the fire spread along the rafters.

Baker, regarded as the leaders of the two dominant parties in the state, favor presidential suffrage for Ohio women and will lend their aid to the proposed bill to be introduced in the legislature. Ohio suffragists propose to have introduced in the next session of the legislature a bill giving them the right to vote for presidential electors a measure similar to the Illinois law, where women are permitted to vote for president. To allow women to vote for constitutional officers, such as the governor and other offices provided for in the constitution, would require a constitutional amendment.

The electric wires for lighting the tree will be connected by The Ohio Service Co.

Must Think It Grows On Trees

Ohio will be $11,000,000 in the "hole" if the legislature should give the various departments all they ask for the next two years. Acting State Budget Commissioner W. T. Donaldson has prepared a statement showing the amounts requested by these departments. For the year beginning July 1, 1917, they ask $25,521,866.61, of which $19,547,346.79 is wanted for operation and maintenance and $6,074,519.81 is for improvements. 2nd, Yr. Estimates Lower
For the second year they ask $24,319,519.51, of which $19,144,683.87 is wanted for operation and maintenance and $5,174,835.64 for improvements. The total amount asked for the two years is a little under $50,000,000, while the estimated income of the state for that period is placed at $38,000,000; so it will be seen that it will be necessary to do a little pruning. Requests Of Department
The requests of the more important departments, the first set of figures representing the amounts wanted the first year, and the second set those wanted in the second year, are: Board of administration, $7,552,880.50; highway department, $4,696,000; $4,594,000; Ohio state university, $1,537,028.58; $2,025,233.51; common schools, $2,640,000; $2,676,000; department public instruction, $433,617; $437,702.35; liquor licensing board, $325,849.36; $329,599.36; agricultural commission, $432,771; $355,314; agricultural experiment station, $440,425; $330,135; Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' home, $293,060.48; $246,602; industrial commission, $722,825.90; $730,452.36; total, $18,858,871.92; $18,534,231.46; others, $6,732,988.70; $7,252,988.47; grand total requests, $25,521,866.61; $24,319,519.51.

How Billy Was Sent to His Mother

By HANNAH HIRSHFIELD

"Tom," said James Gowan to the man in charge of an express car that was about to be pulled out, "here's a package I want you to carry to Milford Center."

Gowan produced a box about three feet long by eighteen inches broad and deep. The lid was hinged and held closed by a lock and staple. The box was perforated and marked: "Perishable. This side up with care."

"I can't take it," said the expressman. "You must put it through the office in the regular way."

Gowan took a ten dollar bill from his pocket book and put it in Tom Murphy's hand.

"Tom," said Gowan, "it's my boy Billy. His mother went to Milford yesterday, and I've got to leave home tonight. Billy must go to his mother. He's too young to travel alone, and the company wouldn't take such perishable property. You'll be alone in

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop dragging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and venereal treatment which never seeps into the pores and can not burn the skin.

Liniment up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, to me, "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of its victims in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, back ache, sprains and swellings.

the car, won't you?"

"Yes, I'll be alone in the car, and I can let the boy out between stations. Let-stays I can let him sit up in his box. How old is he?"

"Five."

"Well, I'll try it on for you, Jim, but I don't want your money."

Gowan took the box into the open car, lifted the lid, and Billy climbed his arms around his father's neck.

"Billy, you must keep very quiet unless Mr. Murphy opens the box. If any one hears you in the box you won't get a ride."

"Yes, daddy. I'll be quiet."

"Well, goodby. Give mother a kiss for me."

"All right, daddy."

"I'll close the lid till the train is off and the car door closed, then Mr. Murphy will let you out."

The father unwound his son's arms with a kiss, closed the lid, slipped the hook through the staple and left the car. In a few moments there was a puffing and a grinding of wheels, and the train pulled out. The lid was again lifted, and Tom Murphy stood looking down at Billy with an amused smile.

"Is it time to get up?" asked the boy.

"I reckon I'll let you get out for twenty minutes. Then when we stop at the station you'll have to get back again."

Billy sat up, and Murphy lifted him out onto the floor of the car. Billy looked about him wondering at the boxes and packages piled here and there. Seeing a tricycle, he was much interested and wished to mount it and have a ride. But Murphy objected. When the whistle sounded for the next station Murphy said:

"Now, Billy, you must get back into your crib and keep very quiet until you hear the door shut and the train move on."

When the train stopped a special agent of the express company got in the car. He told Murphy he was going to the next station and would ride in the car. Murphy suggested that he would be more comfortable in a passenger coach, but he was not to be dissuaded. Settling himself on a box near Billy's crib, he lighted a cigar.

When the train moved on Murphy was much disturbed. The next stop would not be made for half an hour, and he feared Billy would not be able to keep quiet so long. But Billy undoubtedly appreciated the situation, for he lay perfectly still. The special agent, who was a supervisor as well, took occasion to say to Murphy that there had been many cases of goods carried by the company's agents the hazards for which had gone into the agents' pockets. He had been on the watch for such and had caught several agents in the act. They had at once been discharged. While commiserating this fact he looked about him. Murphy thought, with a view to discovering another case.

Finally the supervisor got tired of talking and snatched in silence. Suddenly he cocked his head on one side and listened. Was that some one breathing? He got up from his seat and walked about trying to locate the sound. He finally stopped behind over Billy's crib. He distinctly heard the sound of some one breaking in sleep. Murphy was at a rude desk at an end of the car looking over some way bills. His back was to the supervisor, who unlocked the lid of Billy's box, and, lifting it, there was Billy sound asleep. Glancing at Murphy the supervisor saw he was not observed. He stood for a moment with his eyes fast on the boy's innocent face irresolute, then softly lowered the lid.

A few minutes later the train stopped at the next station.

"Tom," said the supervisor, "all I want from you is that you haven't made any money that properly belongs to the company."

"I haven't," was Tom's reply.

"So long," And he left the car.

As soon as a new start was made Tom went to Billy to let him out of his box. The book was put in the staple. He was sure he had put it there at the last stop. Only the supervisor could have removed it.

"Time to get up, Billy," said Tom raising the lid.

"Are we there?" asked Billy, wide awake.

"No, but at the next station I'll turn you over to your mother."

When the train pulled up at Milford Center Billy was standing at the door of the car. His mother, who was waiting for him, saw him and ran toward him. When she came near enough he sprang into her arms.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring back color, youthfulness and lustre—Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your crown. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, it is a few paragraphs of Sage Tea and Sulfur Compound enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't say gray. Look young! Either prepare the roots at home or get from any drug store a recent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulfur Compound, which is made by the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. The heads of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, draw this thru the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulfur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidney aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

NIAGARA TO BE SHORN OF POWER

WASHINGTON, DEC. 20.—Senator Wadsworth's resolution to authorize an increase in the amount of water diverted from Niagara Falls to increase the electric power output of plants on the American side of the river was passed today by the senate. The measure aims to increase the American power output to make up for the curtailment of power from the Canadian side which is being kept at home for munitions plants and other military activities.

It has the approval of the war department and would permit until July 1 next, the diversion of 20,000 cubic feet of water per second. The limit permitted now is 15,000.

The resolution was also taken up by the house foreign affairs committee. Unanimous consent for immediate consideration in the senate was given upon request of Senator Stone, who said a temporary emergency existed, due to the Canadian embargo on further export of electrical current to the United States. Several New York municipalities are suffering from lack of power.

Diversion of 20,000 cubic feet on the American side, experts say, will not

Can you hear "overtones"

If you can, you will hear more of them when Victor Records are played on a Victrola than you will hear on any other similar instrument.

Overtones can be reproduced only when the artist who made the record created them. Caruso has the most wonderful tenor voice the world has ever known—it is richer in overtones than any such voice has ever been.

Overtones, as separate sounds, are audible only to the trained and sensitive ear. They are harmonic supplements of the fundamental tone, but—when Caruso sings, when the master bow of a Kreisler sweeps across the violin strings, the overtones are there and you are conscious of them in the brilliance and beauty of the music which is yours thru the Victrola.

Hearing is believing. Come in and we will gladly play any music you wish to hear. Victrolas $15 to $500. Terms to suit your convenience, if desired.

GREAT FOR EMERGENCIES

San Cura Ointment Should Be in Every Home.

There never was known a more reliable ointment than San-Cura. In most every case where it has been used it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitchcock, of Centerville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

It has great healing and anti-septic value. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by Page & Lorenz to relieve any kind of piles, eczema, tetter, salt rheuma, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains, and chapped hands, or merely back.

It's mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies for bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it relieves the pain and is antiseptic and healing. It's a medicine chest in itself. A little family physician that is ever in demand. 25c and 50c a jar at Page & Lorenz.

BEST SKIN SOAP.

Is San Cura Soap, because of its great antiseptic and healing virtues. Use it regularly, and it will make the skin soft and velvety. It will remove pimples and blackheads. It's the real soap for babies' tender skin, which mothers of infants should remember. 25 cents a cake at Page & Lorenz.

Knocks Obsolete Coughs in a Hurry

A Simple Home-Made Remedy That Gets at the Cause.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hacking or bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It is so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist "212 ounces of Pinex" (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaracol and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "212 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK

Evidence is not wanting that a great historical party, the party of Lincoln and Grant, is actually strangling itself. Apparently the only thing it lacks is rope and a number of would-be leaders in its own ranks seem bent on supplying that.

Only last week Senator La Follette, one of the few remaining Republicans who seem able to read the signs of the time afloat, made a wise move toward party redemption which his colleagues in the senate, true to their Bourbon type, rejected. We refer to La Follette's nomination of Senator Clapp of Minnesota for president pro tempore of the senate in opposition to Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, the regular Republican nominee.

But there is serious doubt if the leaders of the Republican party are longer capable of facing the realities of the political situation. Senator Gallinger himself certainly cannot. He is as reactionary as was Aldrich himself, or as Smoot or Penrose without the ability of any of them. His own influence had been sufficient to turn his rock-ribbed Republican state over to Wilson. Discredited at home, good taste ought to have dictated to him the propriety of taking a back seat in the senate.

But loyalty to worn-out precedent was allowed to override common sense. La Follette could only muster five votes for his shrewd move. And standpatism and Bourbonism took another step toward their complete and final undoing.

For the fate of the Republican party is not hard to read. It will turn progressive or turn up its toes. The great lesson of the November election was that of progressivism. Whether in the Republican or in the Democratic party, the tale the election told was the tale of Progressive majorities. North, south, east, west, the story was the same. For instance, five prominent men running in as many different localities got phenomenal majorities.

Senator La Follette got 118,600 majority as senator in Wisconsin. Governor Capper got 150,000 in Kansas. Judge Ben Lindsey, running in Denver, got more votes than any man on the ticket and won by 10,000 majority in a city vote. Hiram Johnson got 300,000 majority as senator in California.

Senator Miles Poindexter, the only registered Bull Moose in the last Congress, lead his ticket in the State of Washington, where he ran for reelection last month—with an overwhelming Republican majority and a Hughes defeat.

Medill McCormick got more men's votes than any man running in Illinois, and led his ticket.

Every one of these men has been militantly connected with the progressive movement during the last decade—either as a party progressive or as a progressive Republican of the clean, aggressive type.

On the other hand, Senator Sunderland, of Utah, was defeated by a man who denounced Sunderland as a standpatter.

Senator Clark was defeated by Governor Kendrick, of Wyoming, who was elected two years ago as a progressive on the third party ticket.

Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, was defeated by a man who declared on the stump that he would vote for all progressive measures, and pointed to Lippitt's record in line with Aldrich's record.

Senator Dupont, of Delaware, a typical standpatter, went to defeat before a progressive Democrat.

Senator Fitch, of New Jersey, was a progressive Republican and fought with the men who helped to free New Jersey from the standard control of four years ago.

Whenever the people had a chance to vote for a straight-out progressive in any party they took the chance. Where the line was drawn the voters saw the line, and bowed to it.

Is there no remedy in these facts for the Bourbons who now control the Republican party? Having defeated the party in 1912 and in 1916 are they still incapable of learning anything? Will they persist until they have driven the Progressives out permanently? If they do they can find out what they will have left by looking up the Taft electoral vote in 1912.

In the old Republican strongholds, like Ohio and Kansas, Republicans are still talking "change." It isn't harmony they need. It's a housecleaning. Harmony is the prevailing sentiment in a graveyard and no one is disposed to interfere.

If the Republican party is incapable of grasping the ideals and policies of La Follette it had better make its last will and testament and prepare to split the plank.

INCOME AND OUTGO

By Walt Mason

I used to earn one nickel a day, when I was shearing swine. I never got out much money away, and often I'd repine. And yet—no doubt you'll be amazed—I saved a little store, and knew that when my pig was raised, I'd save a whole lot more. I got a job at feeding ducks, and feeding hens to saving for this each day I drew two cents, and yet my pig was slim. I found that as my income grew, I had to spend more money. I saved less cash when drawing two, than when I drew but one. I got a job at making soap of lard and prairie hair, and joy was in my lovely coop—I earned three pennies a day. "Now I will make my bank roll hum," I cried, in frenzy, then, though week I'll take a goodly sum, and put it down in mine." But my position called for duds much better than I'd known, for scrambled shirts and shining studs—my neck had greatly grown. It didn't take me long to see—and seeing made me blue—that I was saving less on three, than when I pulled down two. And now I earn ten wheels a day, deborning muley steers, and I'm (oh, grievous thing to say!) in debt up to my ears.

MAY ASK

since the recommendations of the general staff for universal service legislation were submitted. It is understood the plan under consideration contemplates the making of an inventory of men in the country, as is being done with industrial resources, and devising a means whereby every citizen would be made liable in emergency for the character of work for which he is best fitted by his peace training.

Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, was again before the subcommittee today, urging universal service and submitting the report on the mobilization of the national guard for border duty compiled by Colonel W. C. Brown from all information available at the war department.

The conclusion of the general staff, General Scott said, that no adequate defense could be built up under the present volunteer system, was fully substantiated by the reports of departmental commanders, inspector-instructor and others included in Colonel Brown's compilation and which disclosed vital and inherent faults in the national guard system which could not be passed over.

The mobilization report shows that of 125,000 enlisted men of the militia inspected on the border, 81,179, or 65 per cent, were either transferred from militia organization, not called out or were new recruits, leaving only 37 per cent of the force "representing the national guard of the organized militia element on the rolls of the organizations in question at the date of call."

Of those who were on the rolls at the time of the call, according to the report, 47,557 were lost for various causes during the period of transition into the federal service, making the national guard as it went to the border substantially a volunteer force. Of the number lost, 7258 failed to respond to the call at all, and 23,721 were rejected for physical disability.

As to the training of the force before it reached the border, the report says, 63 per cent, or 81,263 men, had had less than three months' military training of any kind, and more than 50,000 none at all.

56,000 Had Never Fired a Gun.
Turning to the marksmanship of the state troops, the report shows that 56,813 never had fired a military rifle at all, and that more than 14,000 others had received rating of less than first-class at the target.

Referring to the requirements of the new national defense act, the report says, "the very exactions and requirements which are necessary to the attainment of efficiency will undoubtedly tend to produce a distaste for service in the national guard among the classes of young men who have hitherto joined it for social reasons."

An active campaign for militia recruits carried on all over the United States during a period of four months, July 1 to October 31, continues the report, produced about 15,000—a number insufficient to fill vacancies caused by discharge and casualties occurring during the same period.

General Scott said that despite an almost house-to-house canvass to get recruits the regular army still is short about 25,000 men of the peace requirement.

CAMP WILLIS

bilitation camp at Camp Willis, Columbus, Ohio, for occupancy by troops in the construction of latrines, shower baths, mess-shacks, storehouses, roads, in the introduction of gas, and in the installation of water and sewer systems.

Even Condemns Site.
The department inspector of the central department, who visited the camp, expressed his surprise and indignation at what he believed to be money wasted in expending it for the purposes above named, and generally in preparing a permanent camping ground upon a site which in his judgment was in no way fitted for a mobilization camp and which ought to be given up.

"No dishonesty was developed, but it seems unfortunate that so much money should have been spent without authority and before even formal leaves had been made for the occupancy of the land."
The inspector recommended removal of the camp to Camp Perry, Ohio, as soon as it was practicable to do so. Camp Willis was vacated September 2.

Accompanying the report of the militia division is a report of general Thomas H. Barry, department commander, to the adjutant general of the army complaining of the delay of the Ohio troops in assembling.

General Barry says:

Of No Permanent Value.

"The desirability, or in some cases the necessity, of recruiting certain organizations to minimum strength was the main reason for the delay in the assembling of such troops as reached their mobilization camps on June 25, 26 and 28. The delay in the case of Ohio was primarily due to the fact that the site selected for mobilization camp was absolutely unsuitable and secondarily to the fact that the state authorities considered it necessary to construct a semi-permanent camp with shelters, sewer systems, etc., all of which resulted in unusual expense for work of no permanent value, and much of which was entirely unnecessary. Every effort was made by department headquarters to expedite the assembling of the Ohio troops, but it was impossible to get the state authorities to hasten assembly. It was 10 days after the call before the first Ohio regiment arrived at camp.

"Before this time two Illinois regiments had already left for the border and the troops in several other states of this department were practically ready to leave, having been mustered and physically examined and their property checked."

PEACE TERMS

of this opportunity is a matter of pure speculation.

Every indication shows that England is prepared to wage war more vigorously than ever and the program laid down by the premier makes it plain that he does not look for an early cessation of hostilities. The same view is apparently maintained by former Premier Asquith, who declared that he could see nothing in the German peace note giving the least reason to believe that the central powers are willing to make reparation for the past and give guarantees for the future.

Practically all the newspapers had the speech of Mr. Lloyd George as expressing exactly the thoughts and desires of the British people. While the premier did not go into specific details in the question of terms, his statements, upon analysis, are believed to indicate that the "reparation" sought by the allies means the evacuation of all the territory occupied by the German allies since the war began. It goes further to include indemnities to nations and amends to nationals. Under the principle of "guarantees" comes the question of militarism. Mr. Lloyd George indirectly indicated that England may be in accord with the disarmament suggestion. Among most of the people the idea is prevalent that the war will go on indefinitely.

MISS MANSFIELD

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Barradale was not able to get a vacation till October. On the 10th he went to a house a mile distant from a village, a house where they took summer boarders. The only other person there was a girl of nineteen. Who she was did not appear. She was not a member of the family. She did not reside there regularly. She spent most of the day in her room, but what she did there was not made known to Barradale.

One morning when Barradale started out for his accustomed morning walk his landlady, Mrs. Stetson, asked him if he happened to go by the postoffice to bring the mail, adding that he was to give any letters that might come to her and no one else. Barradale called for the mail and noticed that it consisted of two letters, both for Miss Mabel Mansfield. They were addressed in masculine handwriting. Miss Mansfield was the young lady boarder. Barradale delivered the letters to Mrs. Stetson and thought no more about the matter.

Having nothing else to do, Barradale took long walks, stopping for long rests—that is, when the retreating summer got the better of the coming autumn and it was warm enough to sit still. On several occasions he passed the postoffice and always asked for the mail. There was usually a letter for Miss Mansfield, sometimes addressed in a woman's handwriting. Sometimes in a man's handwriting. Miss Mansfield, weather permitting, took a walk in the afternoon. One afternoon, when Barradale had the mail in his pocket, he met her. Taking out the letters, he selected one for her, gave it to her and passed on. When he handed the other letters to Mrs. Stetson he mentioned that he had given one to Miss Mansfield. Mrs. Stetson frowned, but said nothing. The next day she told him that he need not trouble himself about the mail; she would get it herself. After that when he called at the postoffice he was given his own mail and no more.

There was no one in the house to interest Barradale except Miss Mansfield, and he longed to avail himself of her companionship. He noticed, however, that whenever he attempted to do so Mrs. Stetson thrust herself upon them. The consequence was that Barradale, noticing that Miss Mansfield walked in the afternoon, contrived to meet her and walk with her.

At first she demurred, saying that he was a stranger to her, and she was not used to the society of men. Girls should be very careful with whom they associate. However, she gradually thawed, and her prudence did not prevent her from making appointments to meet him without the range of Mrs. Stetson's watchful eye.

Put a young man and a young woman under the same roof with no other associates, and the result is usually the same. When Barradale went home he had received Miss Mansfield's permission to call upon her mother—she had no father—who lived in the same city as himself, to ask for her hand. The evening after his arrival he made the call. The house was a stone front, and a dignified elderly lady received him.

"Mrs. Mansfield?" he asked.

"I am Mrs. Mansfield."

"Mrs. Mansfield, I have been spending a month in the country, where I have met your daughter."

"I found her a charming girl," continued Barradale—"indeed, so charming that I fell in love with her."

"Were you at Mrs. Stetson's?" asked the lady sharply.

"I was."

"Mrs. Stetson assured me that her summer boarders had all returned to the city," snapped the lady.

Barradale was about to proceed with his application when Mrs. Mansfield broke in, talking partly to herself and partly to him.

"What shall I do with her? She's in a corral. She got all the boys in the high school in love with her, and I packed her off to college to get her away from them. She had barely entered before she was expelled for breaking the rules. I managed to have the expulsion exchanged to suspension and rusticated her under the care of Mrs. Stetson. Mrs. Stetson has written me that Mabel has been getting letters from her lovers despite the fact that Mrs. Stetson has endeavored to intercept them. Did Mabel send you to me to ask for her?"

"She did."

"You are the seventh person she has sent me to ask for her in the past six months. If I had known that a young man had gone to the same house in the country as she I would have warned him. Mrs. Stetson is very much to blame."

"No harm done. I assure you, Mrs. Mansfield," replied Barradale, outwardly unmoved. "I'm just of an age to cut my wisdom tooth. The experience will surely be of service to me."

"I wish you'd take her off my hands," said the lady ruefully. "The others have been boys; you are a man and might be able to control her."

"Thank you very much. Just at present I don't feel like relieving you, but when a man is once inoculated by a Cupid's arrow it's difficult to get the poison out of his system. Meanwhile I'll play her own game with her. I'll let her severely alone for a while."

It so happened that Miss Mansfield had played the game once too often. She is now Mrs. Barradale.

LIBEL THE KING.

Then He Turned Informer and Won a Substantial Reward.

A colonel in the Prussian army, who had been discharged at the close of the Seven Years' war, importuned Frederick the Great to be reinstated. Wearied of the incessant solicitations of his troublesome visitor, Frederick at length gave orders that he should never be admitted to his presence. Some weeks later a most bitter libel against his majesty appeared. Frederick seldom gave himself any concern about such attacks, but the present one exasperated him so much that he offered a reward of 50 Friedrichs of gold for the discovery of the author. The day following the disgraced colonel demanded and obtained an audience.

"Sire," he began, on being admitted, "your majesty has just promised 50 Friedrichs for the discovery of the author of a recent publication. I am come to claim that recompense. Behold in me the unfortunate libeler! My life I forfeit freely, but remember your royal pledge, and while you punish me, send to my poor wife and children the reward due to the informer."

The king, although struck with the sad extremity and self sacrifice of the officer, said sternly:

"Go instantly to the fortress of Spandau and there await my judgment."

"I obey," said the culprit. "But the money?"

"Within two hours your wife shall receive it," said the king. "Take this letter and give it to the commandant, but he must not open it until after dinner."

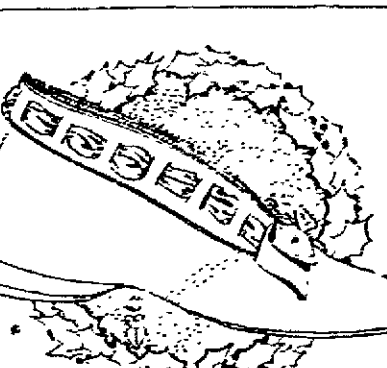

The colonel arrived at Spandau and gave himself up as a prisoner. At the prescribed moment the commandant opened the royal mandate. It ran:

To the bearer I give the command of Spandau. The present governor is to take the command of Berlin as a reward for past services.

Canadians Tearing
Up 1,000 Miles of Rails For France

OTTAWA, ONTARIO, DEC. 20.—Canada has begun tearing up 1,000 miles of railway to meet the needs of the war on the western front in France and Belgium. The rails will be shipped to France where they will be used for the movement of troops and supplies to the fighting front.

Work testing the new railway decided to be between the coast, where the Canadian and Grand Central can be used. Traffic will be taken on one of these lines.

One Cargo on Way.

It is expected that one of the rails to be sent to France will be obtained from the Transcontinental railway and the Hudson Bay railway. It is stated that twenty miles of this will lead one station. The cargo already is on the way to the seaboard, it is said.

In sending a rail to Canada last week for rails, it was said British gov-

Investment authorities represented that prompt action would save thousands of lives. It was impossible to obtain new rails coming to the great demand for steel to manufacture shells. An official was sent to New York, where he conferred with Frank Cushman, Canadian minister of railways, who offered P. P. Gault, manager of the Canadian railway, to do all possible work to get the rails out of the work tearing up on a scale of six miles.

Soldiers To Aid In Work.

E. J. Chamberlain, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, was recalled from Washington to New York, it was said, and the decision to take up 200 miles of rail in western Canada was reached at a conference with A. H. Smith, president of the New York Central railway and president of a board of investigation of Canadian railways.

Soldiers will be employed to tear up the rails when laborers can not be employed, it was stated.

Leper's Daughter Defies Officers to Kill Her Cats

PRINCETON, IND., DEC. 20.—The twenty-four cats in the home of David Byers, the leper victim at Ft. Branch, Indiana, are fast becoming a health hazard. Miss Aileen Byers, the daughter, thirty-five years old, declared as they can be killed only over her body and she keeps the cats well protected on her own premises. Byers' age and the manner are devoted to guarantee with the afflicted father and the disease ends in life, and even they must remain in seclusion several years at least to make sure they have not contracted the disease during the six years the husband in fact has been at home since he became infected in Panama following an accident when he was thrown on his head and was unconscious five hours. That that night brought out the disease and he has been previously confined to bed for several years.

The daughter's life has been a sad one. She is well educated and formerly took a great interest in musical and church affairs. Then, several years ago, a doctor died in the Indiana tuberculosis camp at Evansville. She brought the body to her home and had the funeral there. After that she agreed to care for nothing, became careless in her dress, and she and the mother lost all pride in the care of the home, seemingly. Health officers declared the unkept condition of the house largely increased the chances of the mother and daughter becoming infected. The youngest woman seemed to loath all her attention on the cats she gathered about her. Several days ago when an officer went near the house to hunt the cats she declared:

"You don't dare come into this house and you can't shoot my cats on my lawn when you have killed me."

The dog was "well taken" on the officer's reluctance to enter the house, and thus for the cats, which the young woman says she is keeping in an upstairs room, have not been slaughtered and probably will not be except as they venture off the premises.

Byers, the leprosy victim, has led a strange life. He would leave home without a word and be gone for months and even years, his family knowing nothing of his whereabouts. It is said he spent some time in the South Sea Islands. Then he would reappear, probably with no explanation of where he had been, tho he was talkative enough on general subjects.

AT LAST, EVE IS ACQUITTED

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The supreme injustice of the ages was cleared up today. It need not be known that it is emphatically not Eve who is responsible for the helplessness and foibles of feminine fancies, even though his torty tradition and the serpent have borne witness to her guilt.

Here's the true story for the first time, and you have the word of Robert P. Dow, Editor of the Brooklyn Entomology Bulletin for it.

Eve was Adam's second wife. The first was Lillith, a beautiful blonde and a perfect 72. She had all the characteristics of a type and one day she took her long hair and her tooth brush and left Adam flat. She was next heard of when she married a Phoenician merchant, whereupon Adam took a job and made a woman of his liking. Eve:

"If you don't believe it," says Robert P. Dow, "where did Cain and Abel get their wives?"

Soldiers Got Relief From Soreness

Boys on the Border Relieved Their Pains and Aches with Sloan's Liniment.

Once upon a time Norman Jones, serving in the National Guard at El Paso, returned to camp after a strenuous 15 mile hike foot-on and leg weary. He had not been back in action service and his shoulder, back and limbs felt the after-effects of marching.

Remembering Sloan's Liniment Jones applied it to the sore spots and went to bed. He writes: "I arose the next morning feeling fine, in fact I had entirely forgotten about the hike and went out for a four-hour drill in the sun as spry as ever."

Private Jones passed the experience along, and many a boy on the border relieved the agony of sprains, strains, bruises, insect bites, cramped muscles and many a thing, etc., by the use of Sloan's Liniment.

Locally applied without rubbing. At all druggists, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

WASHINGTON, DEC. 20.—The 200 Americans, detained in Syria and Palestine by the Turkish military authorities, have been granted permission to leave via Beirut on condition that they intern at Beirut for a month to make valueless any military information they may have.

The United States has repeatedly made diplomatic efforts to free the Americans, some of whom are missionaries and others naturalized citizens, and until now each effort has been thwarted by the Turkish military commander.

Ambassador Elkus at Constantinople reported the Porte's action to the state department today. Efforts will be made to have the time of internment shortened.

WOOL CLEANING IN ALEPPO.

Much Like a Conjuror Trick Is This Old Eastern Process.

Many of the old eastern processes may still be seen in the bazaars of Aleppo. A contributor to Black and White in a recent article describes a man whom he saw at work cleaning wool in exactly the same way as has been the custom in Syria since Biblical days:

"In the shelter of one of the arches perhaps you come upon some curious process in full swing. It may be the cleaning of hair or wool or even the making of woolen felt. The cleaning of wool and hair seems to have something of conjuring about it, so immediate are the results and so unexpected, compared with the rule implement used.

"A man seated cross legged on the saving is the conjurer. His instrument is a wooden bowl, about four feet long, in shape like the bowl of a violin, but with the back two feet away from the floor and its strings touching the wool. With a wooden mallet he strikes the strings lightly and sets them twanging harmoniously and then rocks the bowl and lets its back strike the floor or wall. Between the top of the bowl or floor or wall comes a tap of the strings with the mallet, and what with the time he keeps and the twanging strings there is a semblance to the distant sound of a drum and harp. Having got into time with bow and tapping, perhaps he begins to hum a song.

"It is all a matter of a few seconds only before the wool begins to rise in a soft white cloud around the bowl. It goes on rising, and he slightly stirs it, pulls the lower part more under the strings, changes the position of the bowl a little, but keeps up the rocking and tapping and never breaks the rhythm with which he began. Under the vibrating strings the wool grows into a heap in size like a table, but still he goes on, while a cloud of fine dust rises to the roof of the vault. When he stops he has produced a great mound of soft white, fleecy wool and beneath it is a heap of sand and dirt. So he goes on, in the cool shade of his cloister, twanging and tapping and slinging and half filling his vault with clean wool as the result of a day's work with this primitive instrument.

"One may see these wool cleaners often, for they are in every town and bazaar. But just as often one stops beside them to hear the sounding strings, the rhythmic tapping, the monotonous song and to see the magical results which follow. It all is a scene as eastern in spirit and as ancient as can be found."

Genuine black diamonds, although considerably more valuable than ordinary white diamonds, are not used for ornament, having an appearance no more attractive than a bit of stone or fragment of coal. They are of dark gray, brownish, or black color, an opaque, without crystalline form. They are somewhat harder than the crystals, or gem diamonds, being, in fact, about the hardest substance known and are found in irregular pieces, ranging in size from one-half to 500 carats.

SAILOR KILLED BY

Ship Rid of Reptile Only When It Reached Northern Port With Weather Cold Enough to Numb the Terror. Days and Nights Filled With Fears.

IN a long voyage from Calcutta to Boston the crew of the German steamship Esterturm lived in hourly terror of death from a big cobra, whose sting is fatal. The deadly character of the reptile's bite was only too vividly proved on the fourth day out of the voyage, when the men of the fore-castle and the officers heard a sudden, sharp scream of agony. It came from a sailor who had been moving along the deck in the darkness. He was bitten on the leg and a few hours later died in convulsions. When the ship reached Boston the cobra was alive and aboard the ship. It was believed to be coiled and hiding somewhere among the jute bags in the steamship's hold, driven to shelter by the nipping cold that had probably reduced it to a state of lethargy, says the New York World.

But not a member of the nerve-racked crew could be secured to volunteer to seek out and kill the poisonous creature. They were held back by the horror of the remembrance of their comrade's cry the night he was bitten and the spectacle of his agonized death.

Snake's Sinuous Strength.

In closely boarded crates the Esterturm took 124 snakes aboard at Calcutta on an assignment to a New York animal dealer. The cobra had a lot to himself. The snakes were fed from time to time by dropping live rats into the crates, the rodents being caught by traps set in different sections of the ship. Such was the sinuous strength of the cobra that it was able to rip open the stout shut that caged it within the box. No discovery of its escape came until the night that the sailor was fatally bitten.

Officers and men made two or three hunts for the deadly creature, but as there were hundreds of places aboard the ship where it could coil in hiding the snake was not found. Every night became one of terror to the sailors therefore. Some flatly refused to go out on deck at night, and those who did moved cautiously along, picking their way with lanterns.

Almost Caught Him Once.

Once the killing of the snake was almost effected. Half a dozen sailors armed with long clubs searched and beat every cranny of the superstructure of the ship and finally started the cobra from under a coil of rope. Once or twice as one or two of the men aimed the clubs and were ready to strike the cobra reared and darted its fangs back at its pursuers in rage, and the men scattered, shouting in dread and fear. This time the snake disappeared down a ventilator and it was supposed, found its way down into the cargo in the hold.

When the steamship neared port and the weather grew decidedly cold the snake lay dormant, or at least it did not reappear on the deck. None of the other 123 snakes got out. But the Esterturm faced a serious predicament, for when the story that the terrorized sailors told when they got ashore came to the ears of the stevedores they went on strike, refusing to handle the cargo in the hold because of the presence there of the snake, whose sting was certain death.

Later the snake crept out of the forward hold, slid to the railing on the starboard bow and coiled itself for a sleep. All hands were called on deck and, armed with boat-hooks, poles and other weapons, made a combined attack. Finally they poked the cobra into the sea.

Shotguns and Rifles.

When a shotgun or rifle is cleaned, a cork of proper size should be inserted in the end of the barrel. By preventing the entrance of damp this will preserve its value as well as its usefulness. This practice is not followed to the same extent as it should be even among those who take special pride in firearms. It is said that a bit of candle inserted in the barrel will assist in preventing the accumulation of rust.

Examine Your TEETH Tonight

—after you clean them.

You will find, in all probability, an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding between the crevices. YOUR DENTIFRICE does not FULLY CLEAN! Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

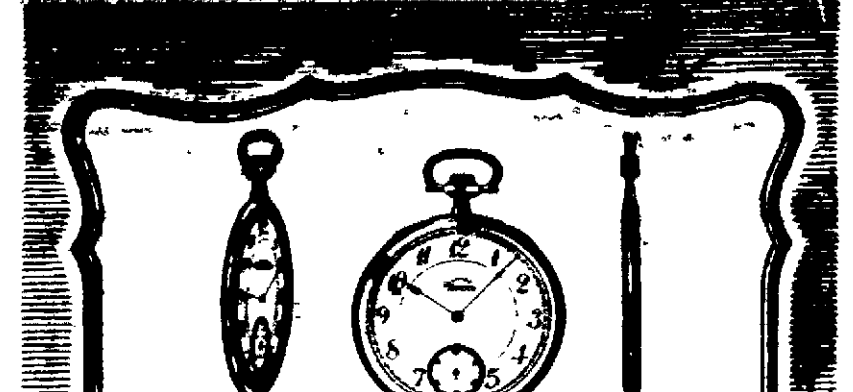

Avoid Pyorrhea and decay. Get Senreco from your dealer today. In large tubes, 25c. Send 4c to Senreco, 304 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, for liberal-sized trial package.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

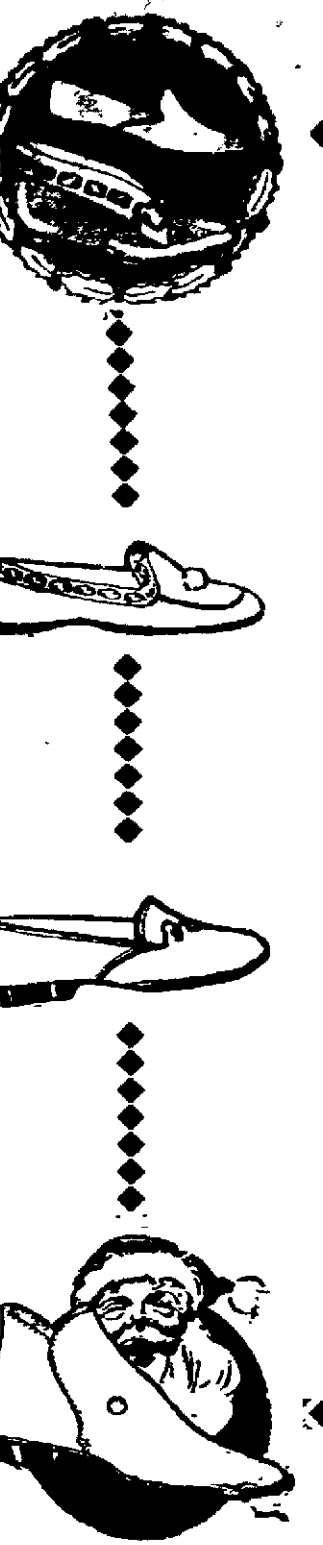

Says a glass of hot water and phosphata prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incrustible material in the form of ashes so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and promain-like poisons are formed, and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a tea-spoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick head ache, colds, biliousness, constipation others who wake up with a bad taste foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

VIRGINIA'S QUESTION
Many years ago The New York Sun received a letter from a child with a troubled heart. The letter was an inquiry as to whether there really is a Santa Claus.

So apt was the reply of the editor of The Sun to this child's query, so nearly a classic in that and English, that The Tribune has re-produced this letter at nearly every Christmas season. This year we have received two requests for the re-publication of this letter, one from this city and one from Clark, showing that this editorial of twenty or more years ago is destined to live long in the hearts of the people as well as in newspaper annals. The child's letter and the editorial follow:

"Dear Editor: I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says if you see it in your paper it is so. Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?"

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be like fairyland, then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus; but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down what would that prove? Not everybody sees Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not; but that's no proof that they were not there. No one can conceive or imagine all the things that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You may tear apart a baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world that not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. It is all real. Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus? Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may, ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood."

LIFE IS SHORT
By Walt Mason

The span of life is much too brief, the years too fast are jumping; we're in the red and yellow leaf before we've started humming. But yesterday, it seems to me, and pastry I was making; and now I'm old as I can be, my bent limbs feebly shaking. But yesterday I went to school and scuffled with vulgar fractions; and now old age begins to cool my zeal for useful actions. If I could live five hundred years, my funeral would find me a household word in all the spheres—a name I'd leave behind me. But just when one is getting wise, in shape to cut much cloyer, his works get bulky and he dies, and his career is over. Man lives a youthful score of years, in which he's merely growing; a score, before he disappears, in which he's merely going. The years in which he puts up grass are but a fleeting thirty; fate takes him from his task—alas, that fate should act so dirty! And yet it's useless to repine, or halt in our endeavor; let's try to make a job as fine as the we lived forever.

"If Lloyd George means to postpone satisfying Europe's desire for peace until the time when the entente is successful in conquering Germany's armies and those of her allies, then the whole of Europe, as well as Lloyd George, knows full well that this announcement means eternal war, unless it is in the power of the German command to bring it to an earlier termination than Lloyd George supposes."
The Tageblatt says it prefers to await the promised reply of the entente, adding:
"For the present it appears that the gulf is very great between Lloyd George's standpoint and that described from the German side as the basis for peace."

LANSING SAYS
and therefore we are entitled to know exactly what each belligerent seeks in order that we may regulate our conduct in the future.

"No nation has been sounded. No consideration of the German overtures or of the speech of Lloyd George was taken into account in the formulation of the document. The only thing the overtures did was to delay it a few days. It was not decided to send it until Monday. Of course, the difficulties that face the president were that it might be considered as a movement toward peace and in aid of the German overtures. He specifically denies that that was the fact in the document itself.

"The sending of this note will indicate the possibility of our being forced into the war. That possibility ought to serve as a restraining and sobering force safeguarding American rights. It may also serve to regard this note as a peace note; it is merely an effort to get the belligerents to define and end for which they are fighting."

THINK ALLIES
general view was that these speeches are not to be taken seriously when weighed against Germany's progress in Roumania.

Not only was this the public view, but officials coincided. One such official declared that no belligerent ever would ask a neutral nation to begin negotiations—nevertheless, steps by a neutral now would not be regarded as unfriendly to the central powers. He added, however, that the public state of mind is not such now that American interference would be welcomed.

DISPUTE BRITISH CLAIM
AMSTERDAM (via London), December 21.—Commenting on Premier Lloyd George's speech, the Taegliche Rundschau, of Berlin, says:
"Reparation could be demanded by England only if Germany had declared war on England, if we were to blame for the war, if we had committed crimes against international law and if we had been defeated."
The Lokal Anzeiger takes the viewpoint that Mr. Lloyd George's remarks about reparation are of no value, inasmuch as nothing has been said thus far about peace conditions. This news-

Teach The Children To Save

Start them right with a Christmas Savings Card for 1917 at this bank.

Train them in the value of saving when young and the habit will stay with them thru-out their lives.

Many children have accounts at this bank and we take real interest in watching them grow.

Hundreds were made happy this year in receiving our checks when we distributed $29,653.38.

Many have already taken out cards for next year.

THE PEOPLES BANK

LIKE ELECTRIC BUTTON ON TOES

Tells why a corn is so painful and says cutting makes them grow.

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug is harmless and never irritates or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin.

CONFERENCE IS A FAILURE

WASHINGTON, DEC. 21. The effort to compose the differences between the railroad executives and the representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods thru conferences will, it seems, come to naught.

According to information conveyed to government authorities today, there is small probability of the executives and the brotherhoods further continuing the negotiations further. These negotiations were to have been resumed in New York today.

The president has let it be known that he wishes a decision from supreme court on the Adamson wage law. The administration take the view, it is said, that any compromise that would be to dismiss this test case would be unfortunate. Moreover, the administration proposes to insist that the legislation it has asked for in connection with the railroad situation be enacted at this session.

Under the circumstances both the executives and the brotherhood heads have reached the decision that the effort to compromise might as well be called off. The question as to what the attitude of the brotherhood will be on and after January 1 has thus far not been answered. The Adamson act has been effective January 1. President Wilson, it is said, will be prepared to ask the brotherhoods, as well as the railroad executives, to refrain from taking any steps until the supreme court of the United States has passed on the Adamson act.

7 Cent Meals Net Profit In Berea College

BEREA, KY., DEC. 21.—Berea College students put Chicago's diet squad to shame. Seven cents a meal is what food cost each of the 1,400 students at the mountain institution, and at that figure those in charge at the boarding hall clear an average of $559.49 a year.

President William Goodell Frost, explaining this, refers to the economy of numbers, and says that the students are accustomed to plain fare, so that they almost unanimously choose to do without tea, coffee and butter to reduce expense. To offset these omissions the balanced ration has been introduced.

When Clock Gets Out of Order.

If your clock gets out of order, try lubricating the works by the fumes from a piece of wadding soaked in paraffin. Set the wadding inside the case under the works; unless the works are actually out of order the fumes will act on the machinery. It is quite a simple but a tried remedy.

Kansas, South Dakota and Wyoming decreased from 1910 to 1915, the greatest reduction being in Wyoming, 2.9 per cent. The east increase was in Iowa, with a growth of but 6 per cent.

Increase in Florida.

The greatest increase was 22.5 per cent. in Florida. In Florida, Iowa and Massachusetts the percentage of increase from 1905 to 1915 was greater than from 1900 to 1910, but in the other seven states it was much higher from 1900 to 1910 than from 1905 to 1915. In Kansas, North and South Dakota and Wyoming the rate of growth from 1900 to 1910 was nearly double that from 1905 to 1915. In Iowa a decrease of 1982 was shown from 1906 to 1910 and an increase of 148,015 from 1905 to 1915. In New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island light decreases were indicated by the state returns of 1905 and 1915 as compared with the increases from 1900 to 1910.

In the past six years the growth in the white population was ten million and the negro population about three-fourth of a million.

"Horns of Venus."

References are made in some cosmological literature to the "Horns of Venus," from which it is concluded by some that in the clear air of Mesopotamia the crescent form of the planet was detected in early times without optical aid. Since Venus when at a sufficient angular distance from the sun, is hardly more than a minute of arc in diameter at the most, such an observation seems quid out of the question, and Professor Campbell thinks the allusion to the horns was merely a lucky guess of the part of the ancient astronomers.
